Figure 7 : Injection deposition profile at extended range of injection velocities for a 2 cm pellet with an assumed η = 0.7. The ability of the EPI to tune the deposition location of the injected mass through a variation in injection velocities by a simple scaling in rail gun current is a unique feature to this actuator type.